—In Liverpool yesterday cotton advanced 3d, and closed at 12½ for uplands and at the spot; 12½ for uplands and at the spot; 12½ for Orleans; sales 20,000.

—Seventy-two cotton and woolen mills are being erected in Georgia.
—Items about land buyers from the North fill all the Southern papers.

—Over 40,000 men paraded in the New York City, a fine day procession.

—Ginoanati is to be presented by one of her citizens with a beautiful fountain, costing $50,000.

—San Francisco has no free delivery of letters, because no carriers can be got at the low salaries offered.

—Emigration clubs are being formed in various parts of England to assist the poor who desire to emigrate.

—The New York Episcopalians fear the Methodists are "trying to take possession of the government."

—Kansas is said to have a better system of railroads constructed and projected than any other State in the Union.

—The Cuban refugees at Key West, Fla., are shortly to start a newspaper to advocate the cause of the revolutionists in Cuba.

—The "Circle des Black-bones" is the name of a Paris club composed of those who can't secure elections to the regular institutions.

—The Committee on Elections of the House of Representatives at Washington have set apart a day for the consideration of the South Carolina contested election cases.

—The preparations for the monster musical festival, to be held in Boston in the month of June, are already far advanced, and contributions of money are being made on the most liberal scale.

—Girard College is in a quandary. The will of its founder requires that graduates shall be bound out to learn a suitable trade; but so few apprentices are wanted now that the college is overflowing with boys who have gone through the whole course and can't be disposed of.

—A floating hotel is to be opened on the Hudson River. A steamboat is to be towed to Polipoli's Island, in Newburgh Bay, near Cornwall, where she will be permanently anchored. She will be thoroughly overhauled and repaired, refurnished and repainted, and so altered as to convert her into a first-class summer boarding house.

—The American Free Trade League proposes to give a series of lectures on the subject of free trade in all the large cities of the United States. Some of these lectures have already been delivered, and have been listened to with marked attention. At Indianapolis, Indiana, an audience of a thousand persons was present. This method of presenting the respective merits of free trade and protection is one of the best ways of informing the people of this country upon this much vexed question.

—The Augusta papers give an account of the killing of L. G. Reese, Esq., a citizen of Appling, Columbia County, Georgia, on Monday last, by C. J. Harden, also a citizen of the same place. The Superior Court of Columbia County is now in session, and Mr. Reese was the foreman of the grand jury. Mr. Harden was a member of the same jury, and the cause of the difficulty is supposed to have originated out of some matter connected with the court. Both parties are respectably connected, and have been good citizens of Columbia County.

—A Washington telegram to the New York Herald says: "Some little interest attaches to the contest for the postmastership of Columbia, South Carolina, from the fact that one of the candidates is a pure African and ex-slave, and enjoys the support and confidence of one of the senators from the Palmetto State. The chief opponent of this dusky would-be postmaster is Captain D. A. Moore, formerly of New York, who is said to be well recommended by the business men of Columbia. The latter, however, stands the best chance, and will be likely to win." (C. M. Wilder, the "darky" ally and foe, is "a pure African," although he is in "slaves.")

On the contrary, he is a bright mulatto, tall, well made and rather handsome. He has the rudiments of an English education, is a civil fellow, and would probably be as acceptable to the people of Columbia as his alleged "chief opponent," Captain D. H. Moore, formerly of New York. (Eds. News.)

—A Radical correspondent, who ought to know about such things, says we who stay at home have little idea of the army campers in Washington—a seedy army of bums, fellows who will have to borrow money before they leave town. He gives specimens of the remarks one hears in going through the lebbies of the capitol: "Let me see your blue book?" "Can't you go and introduce me to Boutwell?" "What do governors of Territories get?" "Don't you think you could get me an interview with the President?" "My service is to the d— if Grant goes on in this way?" "What business has he to make his brother-in-law march here?" "Do you know where there's a vacant consular post?" "I never before saw such a greedy pack as there is in Washington now."

—Dr. I. F. Hayes lately delivered in New York an interesting address on Arctic explorations. The lecturer noticed the course of Franklin's, McClure's and Kane's explorations on the map, and explained wherein he had deviated from their course until he reached Cape Union, one hundred miles northwest of the limit of Dr. Kane's expedition, and whence he (Dr. Hayes), within four hundred and fifty miles of the North Pole, gazed in admiration on the open sea which surrounds it. He then described, with much effect, his approach to Greenland; the people, their dwellings and habits of life; their island iceberg, rising three hundred feet above the level of the sea, and buried seven times that depth, beneath its surface, three miles in circumference and three hundred million tons in weight, enough, he said, if made marketable in the City of New York, to pay off the national debt; the floods or bays, thirty miles in depth and ten in width, in which these icebergs are formed by the thawed snows of the high interior until, breaking from the land by their own weight, they float on in imperious grandeur until melted away in their journey to the tropics. Other Arctic expeditions are now fitting out in England and Germany, and we may yet hear more of this open Polar Sea.

CHARLESTON.

THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 25, 1869.

Ireland and the English.

The disestablishment of the English Church in Ireland is only a question of time. This "badge of conquest" must be removed; for at the back of the Liberal majority of the House of Commons there is an earnest public sentiment which the most recalcitrant peer will hardly care to face. The issue was made at the hustings, and every vote cast for a Liberal member was a vote against the Irish Church. There is, however, one view of this momentous subject which has not been pressed upon public attention, and it is—Whether disestablishment will satisfy the Irish people, remove every cause of dissatisfaction, and make them in feeling as in name the faithful and loving subjects of her Majesty the Queen?

Looking calmly at the condition of Ireland and the genius of the Irish people, we cannot come to the conclusion that the Act of Disestablishment will heal Ireland's wounds and make her children happy, prosperous and free. The grievances of Ireland are many and sore. They are not all of them grievances of religion; nor do we feel that it is too much to say that there are Irish Protestants as zealous as Irish Catholics in demanding the absolute independence of their people. Catholicity, we say with Mr. Bright, "is not only a matter of faith, but of patriotism;" but we cannot admit the truth of his sweeping assertion that "Protestantism is the only fire that is destroying everything that is good or noble in Ireland."

Had the measure which is now the subject of debate in Parliament been adopted twenty years ago, it would have gone far to satisfy the wishes of the Irish. They were then comparatively helpless. There was no advancing tide of English liberal opinion to bear them on its crest. They did not feel the moral and material support of hundreds of thousands of Irish Americans, who now think and work for Ireland. But the situation is changed, and English Liberals are willing, and Irish Americans are eager, to support the countrymen of Grattan, O'Connell and Burke.

In England, the advanced Liberals, by the mouth of John Bright, demand the abolition of the law of primogeniture. Mr. Bruce, another Cabinet minister, recently said that if the English Liberals demanded the vote by ballot, the Liberal Government would grant it. Other changes are asked for which involve equally serious changes in the character of existing laws and customs. The English Church itself is doomed, and John Bright, in the House of Commons, says that "England's liberties were not secured by the churches, but by the Puritans and nonconformists." These things give strength to Ireland; for, with one act of tardy justice done them, the Irish will be prompt to believe that the English Liberals will not refuse to accord them every rational reform.

If the popular current could be checked at this point, the Irish question would be stripped of its greatest danger. But as John Bright significantly said: "The Irish 'men who have emigrated to the United States and Australia are watching anxiously the result of the question. The 'entire Fenian project was fed and kept alive by the sympathy of Americans,' under the idea that England never did justice to 'Ireland.' This is no mere idea; it is a hard fact. And, as well as we may judge, the Irish Americans will not meekly fold their arms and abandon their brethren at home, because the Irish Church is disestablished and some millions of money are devoted to the relief of the destitute and poor. At the Fenian meeting held at Cooper Institute, New York, on St. Patrick's day, General O'Neill said: 'It was supposed by some that the disestablishment of the Irish Church would satisfy Irishmen; but this was a great mistake. The Lord Bishops were not the most objectionable Lords in Ireland. (Applause.) It is the land Lords that Irishmen are after, and they would never rest satisfied while the few great land Lords claim to own the soil of Ireland. England would like to dupe the 'nations into a belief that the Irish disaffection was a Catholic disaffection. (Cries of 'No! no!' and applause.) The Irish Catholics would fight and die, if need be, for justice to Irish Protestants. (Great applause.) The Fenians were not fighting for any particular religion or for 'any particular sect; but for Ireland free and independent.'"

This is undoubtedly the popular programme, and the United States Government will not, perhaps dare not, thwart the bold projects of the Fenian chiefs. There is much depending on the Irish vote; there are the still unsettled Alabama claims, and the prospect of a foreign war might not be unpopular with the masses.

The Irish, therefore, have, in the political condition of England and in the active sympathy of America, an encouragement to persevere in their requests. They may feel that each new concession is a sign of weakness; and it seems most probable that, as each new advantage ground is gained, the Irish people will increase their demands, until at last the universal cry shall be, not for a change in the tenant-right system, but for equal laws and equal taxes; but for the absolute independence of Ireland.

We give, further, in another column, to a letter containing some sound practical suggestions, in regard to the new theatre which we are promised. We concur in the writer's view that the enterprise will pay well, besides being a substantial and lasting benefit to the trade of our city.

Mandamus Quashed.
The opinion of Judge Carpenter, which we publish this morning, quashing the writ of mandamus sued out by Mr. Pillsbury and his Aldermen against the Acting Mayor and Aldermen of Charleston, is based on the purely technical ground that mandamus is not the proper remedy. By agreement the merits of the case were not discussed, but their consideration retained for the trial of the quo warranto between the same parties, which commences to-day.

W. A. Bishop, a colored representative, wrote a letter to a State officer in Oconee, summoning him to Columbia for trial, the officer being charged with no offence, even against the majesty of the General Assembly. A Democratic representative introduced a resolution declaring so unwarrantable an assumption of authority dangerous to republican institutions, and referring the whole matter to one of the standing committees for its action. The resolution, in view of the facts, was as mild as milk, but it was at once laid on the table. A Republican, especially a colored brother, can do no wrong!

In a veto message, which we print this morning, Governor Scott says: "The object of advertising is publicity." This is sound sense but rank heresy, for the Radical doctrine reads that the only object of advertising—whether Federal, State or County—is to keep alive a bunch of sickly Radical sheets, mis-called "newspapers," which, without advertising "pap," would speedily collapse and be indecent no more. Truly, the Governor has lucid intervals!

Insurance.
LIFE ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA. A PURELY MUTUAL WESTERN AND SOUTHERN LIFE INSURANCE SOCIETY. OFFICE OF CHARLESTON DEPARTMENT, No. 40 BROAD-STREET. UNPARALLELED SUCCESS!

THIS ASSOCIATION WAS ORGANIZED ON THE 23d of June last, only nine months ago, and has already secured an annual revenue from premiums on existing policies of nearly $500,000 (Five Hundred Thousand Dollars). Its new business for the month of December was $72,383 36, insuring the amount of $1,187,090. Its new business for the month of January was $96,724 71, insuring the amount of $1,640,000.

One month's business being greater than that done by the largest and wealthiest Life Insurance Companies in the United States during the entire first year of their existence.

The Association was first started by the most wealthy and influential citizens of St. Louis, for the purpose of changing the current of Life Insurance and Life Insurance capital, from the East to the West and South, and as its plan is liberal and just to every section, State and District, the wealthy men of the West and South generally are insuring their lives in it, to the exclusion of other companies.

This is shown by the fact that the policies issued during the months of December and January 30th of an average amount of $7,308 43, drawing an average annual premium of $419 20.

The average amount paid by any other company in the United States is about $400 to each policy, while the average size of all policies existing in this country is only about $2500.

These facts speak for themselves, and show that the business men of the country, who have money to invest, select this Association in preference to all other institutions.

A Branch or Department is about to be established here, under the supervision of a Local Board of Directors, the net assets of which are to be invested in this community.
